JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

PEACE OR WAR.

A well-informed foreigner is as a general rule, a better judge of the temper of a people than a native, whose judgement may be blinded by his passions or warped by his interest. On this account, we often recur to the French paper in New York—the Courrier des Etats Unis—for its views on any question of moment before our country. Its editors are able, they are thoroughly versed in our affairs, and they are exempt from the party passions of our people.—On this account, we have been the more impressed by the expression of the conviction on their part that there is real danger of a war with England, or somebody. In a late number it reviews the classes who are likly to favor a state of war. The first mentioned are those who, seeing the daily warning of the public morality, and feeling with terror the approach of the hour when it will have sunk to the lowest possible degradation, think that a great movement, a peril, a blood-letting, is necessary to make the national heart beat, and evoke a generation of patriots. An illusion of those who have no heart left!

The second are those who, more active and more material in their views, look back with a sigh of regret at the happy time of shoddy contracts, and when dollars danced to the music of cannon. At present the dollars are asleep, everything seems dead, and a violent crisis, an electric shock, is necessary to galvanize the dead body of the nation.

The third class, and far the most dangerous because the most powerful—having control of the Government machine—are the politicians, who have an interest in perpetuating the folly, and are capable of doing it For Gen Grant himself is believed to be of the number and among the most advanced in desiring war. Along with him, or in advance of him, are the great men of the late war—the Shermans, Sheridans, Porters and companions of their rank. Some of these are attracted by the profession; others by petty ambition; others again by the pleasing hope of once again seeing under the same flag, and side by side, Sherman and Lee, Sheridan and Johnston, Thomas and Beauregard, Hancock and Longstreet. For these, this would be the true means of a cordial reconstruction.

A fourth class are the office-holders, who consider that the vast patronage of a great war would ensure the re-election of Grant, and thereby keep them in place for eight years.

Many of these several classes may as yet be unconscious of their own wishes, but circumstances are stronger than men, and indicate with unerring certainty the destination to which they are drifted or driven.

But the hope is that the great bulk of the people, whose interest is in the peace and prosperity of the country, when they come to understand the designs of these selfish men, will make a violent effort to defeat them. But the combination, it is feared, will be too strong for the people.—Cuba will be first taken in hand, then Spain and then England. The beginning and process are plain; the end not so certain.

We condense the foregoing from a long article in the Courier.—Rich. Whig.

A HELPING HAND TO THE SOUTH.

What the Southern people want is a helping hand, and not stones thrown in their path.—Philadelphia Press.

This "helping hand" is what we will never get so long as the conduct of our affairs is committed to the handful of adventurers who have come among us for nothing but plunder. They are all the time hurling stones at us.

When such a man as Colonel Forney, the editor of the Press, comes among us, they surround him from the moment he arrives to the moment of his departure, and take complete possession of him. They are afraid to leave him an instant, lest he should see some one who will tell him the truth. It is there policy to cram him with all manner of misrepresentations, and to win him over to their side. Our own people, who would be pleased to extend civilities to such visitors, find themselves compelled either to break through the arrangements of these crowds of super serviceable rangers on, or to retire and leave the field to them. As they have no object beyond the exhibition of that courtesy due to strangers, they do not relish being jammed between men who officiously act as sentinels over all visitors and thrust themselves into every conversation.

When Northern travelers through Virginia fail to get the attention from our people that they look for, they should bear in mind that it is because self-constituted committees and custodians surround and take possession of them, with the design of keeping off all others. If after this they are so incautious as to take their political cue from such men, their own judgments and not ourselves are in fault.—Richmond Whig.

NEW NOTES.—Treasury Department, Treasurer's Office, Washington, D. C.—Hereafter new United States notes will be furnished from this office only on the following terms, viz:

First. In return for defaced or mutilated United States notes, and fractional currency and "convertible issue" United States notes forwarded to his office for redemption.

Second. On the receipt of certificates of deposit of the assistant treasurers of the United States and United States depositories designated under the act of August 6, 1864.

Third. On the receipt of the collection of checks on banks and bankers in the cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Washington, in the first case the new notes will be forwarded under contract at Government rates, at the expense of the consignee; the amount of charges being deducted from the remittance at this office.

F. E. SPINNER,
Treasurer of the United States.

PRESENTS FOR GENERAL GRANT.—A quantity of Japanese articles, being presents for his Excellency President Grant, arrived here by the steamship Great Republic on the 27th ultimo, and have been forwarded overland to Washington. The presents consist of a Japanese coat of mail, a dozen silken robes, and a variety of crockery ware, and lacquered boxes. As the Constitution prohibits officers of this Republic from accepting presents from foreign princes or potentates, these articles will probably grace a show case in the Halls of the United States Patent office, or be donated to some charity fair.—San Francisco Herald, April 2.

LIFE INSURANCE.

ALL CASH PLAN OF THE

ÆTNA

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

OF HARTFORD, CONN.

W. H. CROW, General Agent for North Carolina and Virginia, South of the James.

Accumulated Capital, over	$10,000,00
Annual Income,	6,000,000
Surplus, above Liabilities,	2,000,000

THE ÆTNA

Has $136 Assets for every $100 Liabilities.

ALL POLICIES STRICTLY NON-FORFEITING.

CASH RATES!
CASH POLICIES!
CASH DIVIDENDS!

DIVIDENDS PAID ANNUALLY, COMMENCING AT THE END OF THE YEAR.

Dividends may be used to reduce the annual Premium, or increase the Cash value of the Policy.

NON-FORFEITING CASH PLAN.

The Ætna issues Policies on the various forms of whole life and endowment insurance, with dividends on the contribution plan, which may be applied to the reduction of each annual premium after the first, or the full premium, may be paid each year and the dividens applied to reduce the number of annual premiums, together with the period fixed for the maturity of the insurance, so that endowments can be paid to the insured before the time originally specified, and life policies before death.

By this plan of applying the dividends to lessen the cost of the insurance on the original policy, instead of increasing the amount of insurance, and of course its total cost, and the policies will become self-sustaining much sooner than in other companies; and in case of inability to continue payments, give a larger paid up policy.

When, by adding the dividends to the Cash Value, the accumulations on any Policy shall have become sufficient to keep the same in force for its full amount, without further payments, the assured may, at his option, either continue payment of premiums—and enlarge thereby the annual additions to its Cash Value—or discontinue them; and in either case, when the accumulations shall have become equal to the sum insured, the annual dividends on the Policy will be declared as a per centage of said sum, and paid in cash, and upon surrender of said Policy the sum insured thereby will be paid in full, without regard to the time fixed therein for its payment.

The system of applying the dividends is peculiarly advantageous to the assured, securing, at an increased age, not only relief from further payment of premiums, but, at the same time, an annual income until death, unless he shall have previously received full payment of the Policy.

The New York Insurance Monitor says of the ÆTNA:

"No Life Insurance Company ever achieved so complete a success as this popular institution.—Its popularity is altogether unprecedented in the annals of commercial enterprise in this country."

"The BROOKLYN LIFE has made no half-way work of the adoption of this inestimable feature. It is noteworthy, in this connection, as a merited tribute to the excellent Company (Brooklyn Life,) which has so gallantly raised the standard of reform in Life Insurance, that we find in the whole list of existing Companies, few competitors which deserve so much credit in respect of economy of management, or care, skill and judgment in the selection of risks."—INS. THE SENTINEL.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

SATURDAY, MAY 1, 1869.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

General Grant has been President not quite two months. During that time he has been intellectually, morally and physically tried in a way of which probably none of his predecessors had any conception. Their trials were sore, but Grant's have been tremendous—perfectly agonizing. He entered upon his duties with the utmost confidence and composure, but ere sixty days have rolled over his perplexed head, he finds the chair of State rugged and thorny. He has changed his Cabinet, and the rumor comes from many quarters that another change will soon take place, as Fish, Boris and Hoar will resign. We do not know how this is. Of one thing we feel quite assured, Grant has lost cast as a man of brains, energy and will. He has succeeded effectually in alienating scores of his followers, without gaining recruits from the ranks of his opponents, because his policy, as developed, is not of a character to excite confidence or trust. Wise men shake their heads in fear of coming trouble, and even some of his most obsequious flatterers are growing lukewarm and apprehensive. His party is not as united now as it was sixty days ago. This is so very apparent, that the New York Herald—a mere political barometer—which did a great deal towards electing Grant, has confessed as much. No one at all acquainted with Bennett's character, either doubts his sagacity or ability to discern the signs of the times, or his readiness to desert a sinking cause. Rats will not sooner leave a sinking ship than the Herald man a party whose fortunes are waning. We give a paragraph from the Herald of the 29th ult. Our readers will understand from such a confession that Bennett suspects reverses ahead for the Republican cohorts. He says:

"The Republican party is fearfully demoralized. The rank and file of this hitherto all-powerful organization have no longer any common bond of union, except the common bond of the public plunder, and over the plunder since the 4th of March last they have been growling, snarling, snapping and fighting like infuriated cats and dogs. There have been, on an average, say ten applicants for every desirable office in the gift of the President with the consent of the Senate, and so, for every patriot removed, nine patriots are disappointed and some are incensed and disgusted. The President has been making quick work of an ugly job. Within two months from his inauguration he has filled nearly all the desirable places; but he has at the same time, with the consent of the Senate, filled all the land with the groans of the wounded. The unlucky-place hunters have turned against him, against the unlucky ones and against each other; and such an exhibition of wrath and scandal, with the washing of dirty linen before the public, we have not had since the first great Cabinet imbroglio of Gen. Jackson."

Now this is bad enough surely. But Bennett is not satisfied with such a pitiful exhibition of Presidential failure, but as if filled with spite against his friend, whom he so lauded and for whom he toiled so successfully, he proceeds to deliver his bile after this sort. Hear him:

"Our opinion is that a terrible recoil will come upon the corrupt and demoralized party in power, and that a wholesome political revolution will follow, in bringing a new party into the foreground. Thus, while the signs of the times indicate that the present administration will be a disastrous one to the republican party, we think it will be good for the country. In the policy which General Grant is pursuing of faithfully and rigidly carrying out the laws and the orders and the wishes of Congress the consequences are becoming apparent to the people, and thus the dominant party, through its own devices, is rapidly hurried on the road to ruin. Andy Johnson, from his policy of opposition to Congress, kept this party alive and furnished it political capital for every election; General Grant, in giving to Congress and the party programme full sway, and in carrying out the party law of rotation in office with an unsparing hand, is in a fair way to the inauguration of a new and more startling and more progressive revolution than that which culminated in his election. We say, then, let him go on, and let it come. A sweeping revolution is the only remedy for universal corruption."

Now what prophet would have dared ten months ago to have foretold such a result! Who would have thought it probable that the Herald, before the 1st of May, would have thus written of his dear General, and thus actually rejoice in his downfall. Oh, Bennett, you won't do. Your "wish is father to the thought." You are blinded by hate, perhaps, and, hence, you declare that Grant's party is falling to pieces. But if you are right in your evil bodings what will the country say? Let us wait and see.

JOHN CONVERTED.

John Neathery and Company are again dealing in harsh language. John says we lie. John calls us an "artful liar." Our true course is not to notice John unless he comes to the depot with a band of armed secret Leaguers, such as Cebe Harris and Company. If we do not republish what John says of us only two men in Oxford will see it. When we were last in Oxford the Postmaster informed us that only Robt. Lassiter, of kildee memory, and one other citizen subscribed for the Standard. By publishing what John says of us we make it known to seventy subscribers at Oxford. At Yanceyville John's paper has only two subscribers, both white men. The negroes there don't take it; not even Carey, the archives of gravity, takes the paper. During the campaign John sent the paper gratis to four negroes and sent several copies to each negro. So we do John a favor when we republish his articles.

John says "when any one sets out to lie we like to see them make a good job of it."

This accounts for John's convertion to Holdenism. A few short months ago John had no more use for Governor Holden than he had for an unconverted thief. John abused the Governor then worse than he now abuses us. John's great charge upon the Governor was lying; now when a man lies John loves to see him lie well.

Did the Governor's proficiency in this black, base art win upon John? John, we say you can't be pleased with lying without being pleased with the liar. Now John when were you convinced that the Governor was a man of truth? You abused him for a liar, traitor, scoundrel, &c., and now you praise him as your "beloved" and a man of truth. John, such behavior on your part makes you a despicable character and good men will avoid you as they do the Governor. If they have business with you they will speak, if no business they will pass you by in silence. Now John we will not say, as little boys in a quarrel, "you are another," nor will we say ditto as old Mr. Pennyman did to Gen. Estes when the General called him a liar, but we will publish what you have said and what you now say, and leave you John to reconcile your declarations with truth and honor.

ADMIRATION FOR HIS COURAGE.

The printer's devil and the boys in our office are expressing great admiration for the courage and magnanimity of Attorney General Coleman. On last Saturday morning, a week ago to-day, Attorney General Coleman came near our office and indulged in such oaths as the Governor used to Chief Justice Pearson, and was heard to say something about dog and shoot him. In the evening of the same day he came to our office door, and out-cursed the Governor again. He said we should have a fair fight, that he did not approve of the late attacks made upon us, that it was base and cowardly, and all he wanted was a fair fight and an open field—that Ajax asked no more.

He flourished a stick which was no more to be compared to the one Cebe Harris had for us at the depot, than the staff of a cotton "umbril" is to a weaver's beam.

In the fight of the Attorney General with the Speaker of the House, our "beloved Governor's" son Joe, the character of the Attorney General, as a man of courage, was greatly damaged. We don't propose to give him an opportunity of recovering his lost character by a fight with us. Prudence and precaution are said to be characteristics of true courage. The precaution of the Attorney General was shown in this: he knew we were at home in Hillsboro, forty two miles distant, when he delivered, in person, his general challenge for "a fair fight." We are now glad we were not in our office, and we prefer the Attorney General should always exercise his attribute of courage by calling when we are absent, lest he should get us off the plattorm of "let us have peace."

Did the Governor send his Attorney General to attack us? Coleman's room is in the capitol. The mob that came to assassinate us at the depot came from the capitol. Three of them had and still hold offices in the capitol. The Governor knew beforehand that we would be assailed at the depot, and after demonstrations were made upon us, (which Attorney General Coleman says were "cowardly,") the Governor approved them. We tell the Governor to keep "my (his) officers" in the capitol, and keep them sober. When the Supreme court ordered one of the Governor's officials to jail for contempt, the Governor swore like a Sailor, that he should not go until the posse went over the "dead Bodies of his militia."

We do not pick up the glove thrown down by one of the Governor's officials. It is a week ago, to-day, since it was thrown, not at our feet, but at our door. The challenge of the Attorney General and his non-committal caution, reminds us of an Irish Attorney who once challenged a brother Attorney to fight a duel, and fixed the place of meeting in the Phœnix Park, adjacent unto the city of Dublin, and in that part of it entitled the fifteen acres—be the same more or less.

We tell the Governor in all seriousness, that after his remarkable demonstrations at the Town Hall on the occasion of the attempt to mob us, when he justified all that had been done and said, and after his refusal to allow us to reply to him, we cannot regard him a fit custodian of the public peace, and that he will subserve the interests of peace and order much better by keeping his drunken officials in the Capitol, than by offering a reward of five hundred dollars, and putting out detectives for the arrest of the man who attempted to assassinate us.

THE FRENCH.

Perhaps the most volatile nation on earth is the French. They love excitement, and especially the excitement of revolutions.—The signs now indicate that they are thinking seriously of engaging in another war among themselves. Napoleon III has been Emperor long enough, so they are meditating a revolution by which he may be got rid of, and some Bourbon, or some new man who may be thrown to the surface amid the mighty upheavings of the volcanic Empire, may be enthroned in Louis Napoleon's place. Only the other day when the Corps Legislatif was about adjourning, shouts for the Emperor mingled in strange confusion with shouts for Liberty. These two words evidently in the French mind represent two opposing ideas. But Louis Napoleon is wary, and astute, and able, and he will out-wit his enemies unless the assassin's dagger should do the work suddenly. He understands, thoroughly, French character, and, hence, he will precipitate the Empire into the vortex of war with Prussia or any power, if such a course should be deemed necessary by him for the preservation of his authority. His power over the people is represented as declining, just as we know Grant's popularity is, but he is a man of Napoleonic ideas and resources as well as of Napoleonic name, and we believe he will die as he has lived since 1848, Emperor of the French.

SECESSION.

Secession is not the fruit of the tree we planted as the following extract from the 4th chapter of President Buchanan's book, defending his administration, will prove.—We have and are now eating of the fruit of the tree which Massachusetts planted.—The doctrine was all right when it was to the interest of Massachusetts to secede. The doctrine was all wrong when it was against her interest for the South to secede. The South must be visited with fire and sword, as it was, rather than see the Massachusetts' doctrine of secession prevail, when it was against the interest of that State.—But to the Book:

"The alleged right of secession, or the right of one or more States to withdraw from the Union, is not (says President Buchanan,) a plant of Southern origin. On the contrary, it first sprung up in the North. At an early period after the formation of the Constitution, many influential individuals of New England became dissatisfied with the Union between the Northern and Southern States, and were anxious to dissolve it. "This design," according to Mr. John Quincey Adams, "had been formed in the Winter of 1803-'4, immediately after, and as a consequence of the acquisition of Louisiana." This, he disclosed to Mr. Jefferson, in the year 1809. About the same time to the confidential friends of Mr. Jefferson, he urged that a continuance of the embargo much longer would certainly be met by forcible resistance, supported by the Legislature and probably by the judiciary of the State, (Massachusetts.) That to quell the resistance, if force should be resorted to by the government, it would produce a civil war, and that, in that event, he had no doubt, the leaders of the party would secure the co operation with them of Great Britain. That their object was, and had been for several years, a dissolution of the Union, and the establishment of a separate confederation, he knew, from unequivocal evidence, although not provable in a Court of law, and that in case of a civil war, the aid of Great Britain to effect that purpose would be assuredly resorted to, as it would be indispensably necessary to the design."

Afterwards, in 1828, whilst President of the United States, he re-affirmed the statement made to Mr. Jefferson, and said: "That project, I repeat, had gone to the length of fixing upon a military leader for its execution; and although the circumstances of the times were admitted of its execution, nor even of its full development, I had yet no doubt in 1808 and 1809, and have, no doubt, at this time, that it is key of all the great movements of those leaders of the Federal party in New England, from that time forward until its final catastrophe in the Hartford Convention." It is but fair to observe that these statements were denied by the parties implacated, but were still adhered to and again re-affirmed by Mr. Adams.

In this connection we may cite the speech delivered by Mr. Josiah Quincy, a leading and influential Representative from Massachusetts, on the 14th of January, 1811. In this he boldly avows and defends both the right and the duty of States to separate from the Union, should Congress pass the bill then pending before them, to "Enable the people of the Territory of Orleans to form a Constitution and State Government, and for the admission of such State (Louisiana) into the Union on an equal footing with the original States."

He alleges "That the principle of this bill materially affects the liberties and rights of the whole people of the United States. To me it appears that it would justify a revolution in this country, and that in no great length of time may produce it."

He then proceeds to declare as follows: "If this bill passes, it is my deliberate opinion that it is virtually a dissolution of the Union; that it will free the States from their moral obligation, and, as it will be the right of all, so it will be the duty of some, definitely to prepare for a separation, amicably if they can, violently if they must."

Upon being called to order for the utterance of this sentiment, he repeated it and committed it to writing, with his own hand.

The violation of the Constitution involved in this bill was, according to Mr. Quincy, the admission into the Union of a State composed of foreign territory, which had been outside of the limits of the United States when the Constitution was adopted. This, he contended, would result in a serious diminution of the power and influence in the Federal Government, to which Massachusetts and the other old States were justly entitled. It is curious to observe how he justified a dissolution of the Union by the very same fallacy afterwards employed by Southern Secessionists, in apply to our Government, a rule of construction applicable to mere private contracts.

"Is there," said he, "a moral principle of public law better settled, or more conformable to the plainest suggestions of reason, than that the violation of a contract by one of the parties may be considered as exempting the other from its obligation?

Thirty-five members united with Mr. Quincy in voting against this bill, but it passed the House by a vote of 77 to 36.

We shall refer specially to the proceedings of the Hartford Convention, which assembled in December, 1814, during the existence of our last war with Great Britain. We may observe, generally, that this body manifested their purpose to dissolve the Union, should Congress refuse to redress the grievances of which they complain. The peace, however, with Great Britian, terminated their action, and consigned them to lasting and well-merited reproach. During this entire period the Southern people opposed and denounced all threats and efforts to dissolve the Union as treasonable, and, during the war as giving "aid and comfort to the enemies."

"HEAVY."—Theodore Tilton, the intellectual editor of the New York Independent, a Radical of the deepest dye, has recently visited Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and has taken a look at the Legislature there in session. His impressions are not very flattering, as will be seen from the subjoined extract. If Tilton will come here next Winter when our hands are in Legislature assembled, he will see a much more startling "array of lowbrows," not to speak of their being "the most corrupt" body "that ever preyed upon a bleeding Commonwealth." Let Tilton come and take "a peep" at our body. He will find food for much thought and material for a half dozen racy letters. This is what he says of the legislators in the "Buck Eye" State:

"Never before have we seen so squalid an array of lowbrows grouped together in any one legislative chamber, not even in Albany. Sold Pennsylvanians say freely (and with many interspersinkled damnations) that the present Legislature is the most corrupt that ever preyed upon the bleeding Commonwealth. We take no part in this accusation—not merely because we cannot substantiate the authenticated facts, but because men may have bad-looking faces without having ill-meaning hearts. Far be it from us to insinuate that the Pennsylvania Legislature is corrupt; we simply mean to characterize it as the most suspicious looking public body we ever saw."

NO. 3.

CHAPEL HILL IN DR. CALDWELL'S TIME.

Dr. Caldwell was twice married. Not long before his election to the Presidency, he had married Miss Susan Rowan, who with their only child, a daughter, died in three years time. The place of their burial is unknown. The village graveyard was probably not laid out at that time. His second wife was Mrs Helen Hooper—widow of Wm. Hooper, Esq.—who had come to Chapel Hill, as many another widow has done since, to educate her sons. The Rev. Dr. Hooper, of Wilson, the Nestor of N. C. literati is now sole survivor of that family. Mrs' Caldwell was a daughter of James Hogg, of Hillsboro', and was born in Scotland, her father emigrating to this country soon after she was grown. She was a remarkable woman; highly cultivated and possessed of a wit and readiness of repartee which made her the life of society. Her sister, Mrs. Robina Norwood, wife of Judge Norwood, of Hillsboro', resembled her in sprightliness and equalled her in cultivation, but was perhaps less unsparing in her wit, and of a softer disposition. Both these ladies retained even in old age, a vivacity and freshness of mind peculiar to the Scotch nation.

Mrs. Caldwell of course gave the tone to society at the University. She was a woman to take the lead and keep it, and I have thought that perhaps a good deal of the exclusiveness that characterized it for years even after she had ceased to preside there, was due to her old world birth and breeding, where the distinction of classes in society is more marked than in this country. However, sixty years or more ago, there was a marked aristocracy of feeling which does not now exist—or at least is not so noticeable. No one can read the records of Washington's private life without being fully convinced that he and Mrs. Washington had very high notions of the prerogatives of the "upper classes," and maintained a state and formality which would not now be endured.

Mrs. Carolina Lee Hentz was a distinguished ornament of Chapel Hill in those early days. Her grace, and beauty and refinement would have distinguished her in any circle. Prof. Hentz was a native of France and a very accomplished man. He was an amateur Entomologist, and my earliest recollections are of certain glass cases in his house filled with bugs and butterflies, impaled on pins. They both drew in water colors, a very rare accomplishment in North Carolina back woods, fifty years ago. The first, and for many years, the only lightning rod in Chapel Hill was put up on their house, in consequence of some extraordinary electrical display on their parlor floor during a severe thunder storm. They left Chapel Hill in 1830 and seem to have suffered from an attack of the same home sickness, that all experience who have left the place. Mrs. Hentz's first novel—"Lovel's Folly," contained half a dozen Chapel Hill portraits, among them, easily recognizable, were those of November and Vesus, Dr. Caldwell's carriage driver and house servant. "Dr. November" is still living at Chapel Hill in a green old age, having survived much, and seen many and sad changes. As remarkable a woman as any, in her own sphere, was Mrs. Elizabeth Nunn, who for many years kept the principal boarding house for students, and kept it so well as to quite supersede the Steward's Hall, where Dr. Hooper's "fifty years since" tells us the fare was seconds wheat-bread and butter and coffee for breakfast, middling, and collards and corn bread for dinner, and milk. Mrs. Nunn did better than that. Her house was the only stopping place for travellers, and she was an energetic and indefatigable housekeeper and a kind neighbor. She lived to a great age, having seen the sons and grandsons of those who had boarded with her, come to College, when her sceptre had passed into the hands of Miss Nancy Hillyard. Her husband was a captain in the Revolutionary army, and fifty years after his death, she spoke of him with tears. Gov. Swain asked her once which of the parties she belonged to in the war of the Regulation. "Why to the Regulators to be sure," she replied, "and as good a Whig as ever hopped."

The Commencement Ball sometimes took place in the "big-room" at her house, and sometimes in the old Chapel—Gerard Hall—where Dr. Caldwell himself danced in pumps and knee breeches. I stood by her death bed in December 1851. Though her senses were much impaired, yet her memory of the old days was still fresh. She said that when the old South Building was completed, Chapel Hill fired "its first and last cannon," in celebration of the event. If she could have lived till now, she would hardly have said its last cannon if she had seen the long trains of artillery belonging to two hostile armies thundering along its quiet streets.

THE FACULTY, FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Chapel Hill, like the State of North Carolina herself, has always been in the habit of contributing some of her best citizens to adorn other communities. Profs. Andrews and Olmstead of Yale, left Chapel Hill some fifty years ago. Some of those who were Tutors in those early days became distinguished citizens of other States.—Among them were Bishop Otey, of Tennessee, the Rev. Thompson Bird, of Iowa, and the Hon. Jacob Thompson, of Mississippi. Mr. Otey married a Chapel Hill young lady, and "Otey's Retreat," on the banks of the creek, not a mile from the College buildings, where tradition says he was in the habit of resorting, book in hand to meditate on other charms than those of the printed page, is this spring, yet fragrant with the glories of yellow jessamine and woodbine, and laurel as fifty years ago. The bend in the stream is still there, and the fall over the rocks murmurs the same melody as it flows on to join the brimming river.

"For men may come, and men may go
But I flow on forever."

DR. MITCHELL.

But of all who came to Chapel Hill sixty years ago, no man made a more lasting impression on the University, and on the people of the State, or gained a higher place in their affection and reverence than the graduate of Yale College, who came here in 1818, to fill the chair of Mathematics, which he afterwards vacated for that of Chemistry, Geology and Mineralogy. This was Elisha Mitchell. He remained there till his death, in 1857, and when he died he was known in every part of North Carolina, and left no one behind him better acquainted with the State, her mountains, vallies, plains, her birds, beasts, bugs, fishes and shells, her trees, flowers, vines and mosses, her rocks, stones, sands, clays and marls.

A WILLIAM TELL FEAT.—A printer in the Columbus Sun office and a young companion, with more nerve than discretion, have recently been seeking to eclipse the William Tell romance. At a distance of forty yaids one of them held a target not four inches above his head, and allowed his companion to shoot at it with a Potter's rifle. The ball very nearly centred the bull's eye.

THE MILTONIAN TABLEAUX.—These grand panoramic Tableaux will be opened at Tucker Hall on next Friday for the first time. The following notice of them appeared in the London Morning Chronicle and is from the pen of Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon, the most remarkable man of modern times. This world wide famous divine says:

"Entering into the spirit of Milton's immortal production, the artist appears to have caught his genius, and has added expression to those bright conceptions, which excepting the writings of inspiration, are without an equal, and portray the power of intellect of the highest order. But for that poem our deductions from the sacred narrative of creation—of our first progenitors—of their primeval state and fall—of the region of bliss and woe—of the arch tempter's insidiousness might not have harmonized with these stupendous realities, which are recorded in the Mosaic description—The illustration—If with propriety we may use the word—of this exhibition unfolds and portrays the truths in a form of solemn and imposing grandeur, and alike displays the Great Creator's might, majesty and power!"

A CITIZEN OF LENOIR COUNTY REMOVED TO IOWA.—In 1854 a man named Young living in this State who, together with another man, committed grave crimes, for which they were arrested, tried and imprisoned. They broke jail, and Young escaped to Iowa.

About a year since he returned and settled in or near Kinston. A few days since a Sheriff accompanied by another gentleman, came to this State with a requisition from the Governor of Iowa to Gov. The Sheriff of Lenoir said (as we are informed,) that it was a risky job to try to arrest him, and refused to undertake it; therefore the Iowa Sheriff did the business, and took him before a Justice of the Peace in Green county, where he was acquitted. Justice Huggins of Kinston, issued another warrant for his arrest, and deputized a Mr. Lottin to arrest him, which he did, notwithstanding the endeavors of his friends to help him to escape. THE ROSE BUDS.

Yes, in that dainty ivory shrine,
With those three pallid buds, I twine
And fold away a dream divine!

One night they lay upon a breast
Where Love hath made his fragrant nest,
And throned me as a life-long guest.

Near that chaste heart they seemed to me
Types of far fairer flowers to be—
The rosebuds of a human tree!

Buds that shall bloom beside my hearth,
And there be held of richer worth
Than all the kingliest gems of earth.

Ah me! the pathos of the thought!
I had not deemed she wanted aught;
Yet what a tenderer charm it wrought!

I know not if she marked the flame
That lit my cheek, but not from shame,
When one sweet image dimly came.

There was a murmur soft and low;
White folds of cambrick, parted slow;
And little fingers played with snow!

How far my fancy dared to stray,
A lover's reverence need not say—
Enough—the vision passed away!

Passed in a mist of happy tears
While something in my tranced ears
Hummed like the future in a seer's!

Wheeden's Excelsior Labor-Saving WASHING COMPOUND.
Patented Sept. 22, 1868.
REASONS FOR PREFERING THIS SOAP.
The Patentee claims for this Soap the following advantages which are clearly set forth in the Letters Patent, to-wit:
First, it can be manufactured at less than half the cost of any soap ever produced.
Secondly, it may be used successfully in any kind of water—cold or hot, hard or soft.
Thirdly, it so modifies the action of boiling water on woollen goods that their fibres do not contract under its influence, and your woollen garment is as large after boiling as before.
Fourth, it does not decompose the colors of goods, and your prints and stripes are as brilliant after washing as before.
Fifth, the goods do not require any rubbing or patent washing machine—all that is necessary is a few minutes boiling and a good rinsing.

LIFE INSURANCE.

NATIONAL

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF THE
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Chartered by Special Act of Congress, Approved July 25th, 1868.

CASH CAPITAL,
$1,000,000,
PAID IN FULL.

It is no longer a question with any man, who tenderly loves his wife and children, who considers how helpless would be their condition in case of his death, as to the duty of taking out a LIFE POLICY, but as to which Company he shall pay his money.

If he reflects a moment he will conclude to patronize the Company which shows the greatest degree of vitality, which extends its business over the largest area, which is a Home Company in every locality; which furnishes insurance at the least cost; which issues no policies that are forfeitable should he be unable next year, or any subsequent year to pay his renewal; and which is undoubtedly able to meet ALL ITS PROMISES.

With these feelings and views, he looks over the newspapers, and, by the time he gets through reading the advertisements of Mutual or Mixed Companies, he finds his mind so fuddled that he is at a loss where to go or what to do. He can not comprehend one-half that is written, and concludes that none but ACTUARIES, who are familiar with the principles upon which Life Insurance is based can comprehend or explain anything about dividends and his liability for notes given in part payment of premiums. In his dilemma, he looks into the plan adopted by the

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
U. S. A.,

and finds just what he wants:

An ALL-CASH PLAN, reduced to the LOWEST MINIMUM Rate, like any commodity in Market, so much Insurance for so much Money. No notes to give; no interest to pay; no anxiety about Assessments; no apprehension of his Policy being forfeited next year if he does not pay his annual Renewal; and the RATES so much LOWER than other Companies, that he realizes a larger Dividend, IN ADVANCE, than other Companies can pay him in the future.

He finds that, instead of this UNCERTAIN PROMISE, and present high rate, that the presents a certain and definite sum for a much lower rate, and puts up its paid up Capital of

NATIONAL

$1,000,000

as a guarantee fund, that its contracts will be fulfilled, and, like thousands of others, cheerfully calls on their Agent to make his application for a Policy. Hence the unprecedented and most wonderful success of the NATIONAL as contrasted with the older and Mutual Companies.

The Company issued its first policy on the 1st of August, 1868, and up to March 1st, 1869, it had issued 3,582 policies.
Amount insured, $10,005,550.00
Total Premiums, 350,117.03

The whole number issued by the Connecticut Mutual in the first year of its existence was 892
By the Mutual Benefit of New Jersey, 693
" New England Mutual, 349
" Phœnix Mutual, 335
" Massachusetts Mutual, 312
" Equitable of New York, 277

The Mutual Life, of New York, in the first year of its existence, only issued 470 policies.
In its 10th year, $1,200 "
And in its 20th year, 2,842 "
this latter being 600 less than was issued by the NATIONAL in its first seven months.

PUBLISHED AT THE CAPITAL OF THE STATE,
Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly.

NEW ARRANGEMENT.

The RALEIGH SENTINEL having passed under the Editorial management of the undersigned, it will, from the present date, be conducted by him.

It will be the zealous and fearless advocate of the CONSTITUTION of the United States, seeking to bring the people back to their ancient reverence for that immortal instrument, and to restore the policy of the country to that honored standard, as the only guarantee of National prosperity.

It will do justice to the men and measures of the present day, whenever they may merit it, but it will unsparingly lash and denounce all who set themselves up in opposition to the Federal Constitution, and hold up to the public indignation corruption and imbecility in high places.

It will ardently seek the promotion of the best interests of North Carolina,—moral, educational, material and political.

THE LATEST NEWS

From every quarter, both by mail and telegraph will be carefully collated and presented.

Full and correct market and financial reports will be given.

And, in one word, no effort will be spared to make the SENTINEL, in all respects, a reliable

CAUTION! WE desire to warn the dealers in, and consumers of Snuff generally, that since the war, certain Tobacco Manufacturers, being unable to find a market for their snuffs, felt themselves obliged to counterfeit the general appearance of our packages, and imitate our Trade Marks so that a close inspection is necessary to detect the spurious article from the genuine, and others, going so far as to assert that "Lorillard's Snuff is no longer made."
In making this publication we desire to warn the public against the impositions practiced upon them, as they are the losers thereby. It will be found, upon comparison, that Lorillard's Snuff is "far ahead" of all others, being made of the best stock, after an original and secret process known only to ourselves, besides possessing great age, strength and pungency, and is warranted not to contain any dangerous or deleterious substances, which cannot be said of many worthless articles put on sale by others. The best is the cheapest in the end. A circular will always be mailed on application. In ordering please specify if Salt Snuff (High Toast,) or Fresh Snuff (Extra Scotch) is desired.

NEW METHOD OF WASHING CLOTHES
WITHOUT LABOR.
THE AUTOMATIC
CLOTHES WASHER AND BOILER.
THIS BOILER IS MOST EFFECTUAL, reliable and universally recommended. It can be used on any Stove or Range, in any boiler, and the LOW PRICE of the article places it within the reach of every family.
This Boiler operates upon purely philosophical principles, is self-acting, and dispenses with labor and the wear of the clothes.
The hot suds and steam, by the action of heat, are driven up through tubes, poured upon the clothes, and forced through the fabric with astonishing rapidity, cleansing all articles, from the finest laces to the bed-blanket. For Flannels it is invaluable, as it does not full them as in the old process of rubbing and pressing.
The time required for cleansing a boiler full of clothes is twenty to thirty minutes, and nearly three hundred gallons of boiling suds are forced through the fabric, thoroughly loosening and eradicating the dirt WITHOUT LABOR or friction.—A thorough rinsing finishes the process.
Washing day will no longer be a terror and dread to housewives. The cost of the Boiler will soon be recurred in the SAVING OF TIME AND LABOR, and the great saving in the wear of clothes.
The great value of this invention appears so clear, and appeals so directly to common sense, that we have deemed it unnecessary to accompany its introduction with numerous letters of approval, &c.
No invention has met with such ready sale and given such satisfaction. Call at LOUGEE & BROTHER'S, and see its wonderful operations.—We have the exclusive right to sell and manufacture in the state.
